BEIJING, CHINA.
HOTEL ÉCLAT.

PURE SENSATION.

From the Andy Warhol "Giant Panda" screen print in the lobby, to the dozens of bronze Dali sculptures scattered throughout, Hotel Éclat Beijing's most stunning feature is its contemporary art collection – one of the largest of any hotel in the world. And yet the property has another trick up its sleeve: an innovative solution to pollution. No need for smog masks here inside Parkview Green, a LEED-certified glass-and-metal construct that encases the hotel along with a shopping mall, art centre and several office towers. Design and technology combine to drastically reduce the building's environmental impact, while a microclimate creates comfortable conditions year round – perfect for guests staying in a suite with their own terrace and private infinity pool.
